Dear [REDACTED]

Your January 5th communication has been received.

While I wish we could be of assistance, the FBI has no authority to actively investigate the whereabouts of any missing individual unless a violation of Federal law within our jurisdiction has occurred. Also, the "conditions of disclosure" provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 (Title 5, U.S. Code, Section 552a) generally preclude the dissemination of any information from our system of records concerning an individual to a third party without the written approval of the person to whom the information pertains. I hope you will not infer either that we do or do not have material in our files relating to your father.

You may wish to try sending a letter to your father through the Social Security Administration's Letter-Forwarding Unit, 6401 Security Boulevard, Baltimore, Maryland 21235. Under certain conditions, the Social Security Administration will forward mail to another individual if his or her whereabouts can be determined through its computer system. If you wish to take advantage of this service, you should send the Letter-Forwarding Unit an unsealed letter addressed to your father, along with a cover letter explaining your relationship and the reason for wanting to contact him. The cover letter should also include the missing person's full name and any other information which would help in locating and identifying him.

The investigation of missing persons generally falls within the jurisdiction of local and state police. If you have not already done so, I suggest that you contact the local police in the area where your father was last known to be residing. I regret we cannot help you further.

Sincerely,

2 MAR 25 1987

William M. Baker
Assistant Director
Office of Congressional and Public Affairs

NOTE: Bufiles contain no record of correspondent and nothing identifiable with her father, [REDACTED] based on available information. NCIC and Identification Division records are negative concerning [REDACTED]
